ELVIS RICHARDSON
 NATIONAL HOUSING SEARCH <$250,000

On recent housing searches using a realestate app on her iPad, Elvis Richardson found herself looking at the images not so much as architectural shells where she could imagine her potential home but more as photographs like documentary evidence of chance encounters with identity and place. The images revealed so many photographic genres and conventions; the wide angled forensic compositions, the mood lighting, interiors, still life, documents of personal presentation and social transition, empty spaces or spaces furnished in dated colour and textures, and so on. Richardson began collecting them by taking a screen shot on an ipad and the collection quickly grew.
